

Pedro Casermeio holds a bachelor's degree in psychology from the University of Barcelona. He served on the commission in 2013 to create the new regional strategy for Roma inclusion in Catalonia. He currently serves as, youth trainer and European projects officer. He also writes news, develops communications campaigns, and manages the website "Virtual Museum of Catalonia Romani people" (www.museuvirtualgitano.cat). He is also Vice President of RromaneSiklövne, an organization founded by the first Romani students who finished compulsory education and continued on to high school from the neighborhoods Bon Pastor and Baró de Viver in Barcelona. He has extensive experience as a certified youth trainer, teacher and policy consultant. He organized the first workshop for studying Romanes during school hours in Catalonia.